

INTERNATIONAL GCSE ENGLISH LITERATURE

9275/1

Paper 1 Prose and drama

---

Mark scheme

Additional specimen paper

---

Version: 1.0 Final

Mark schemes are prepared by the Lead Assessment Writer and considered, together with the relevant questions, by a panel of subject teachers. This mark scheme includes any amendments made at the standardisation events which all associates participate in and is the scheme which was used by them in this examination. The standardisation process ensures that the mark scheme covers the students' responses to questions and that every associate understands and applies it in the same correct way. As preparation for standardisation each associate analyses a number of students' scripts. Alternative answers not already covered by the mark scheme are discussed and legislated for. If, after the standardisation process, associates encounter unusual answers which have not been raised they are required to refer these to the Lead Examiner.

It must be stressed that a mark scheme is a working document, in many cases further developed and expanded on the basis of students' reactions to a particular paper. Assumptions about future mark schemes on the basis of one year's document should be avoided; whilst the guiding principles of assessment remain constant, details will change, depending on the content of a particular examination paper.

Further copies of this mark scheme are available from oxfordaqa.com.

Copyright information

OxfordAQA retains the copyright on all its publications. However, registered schools/colleges for OxfordAQA are permitted to copy material from this booklet for their own internal use, with the following important exception: OxfordAQA cannot give permission to schools/colleges to photocopy any material that is acknowledged to a third party even for internal use within the centre.

Copyright © 2026 OxfordAQA International Examinations and its licensors. All rights reserved.

Statement of importance

International GCSE English Literature is the study of how writers communicate their ideas about the world, and how readers might respond to these ideas. It aims to develop a critical understanding of the ways in which literary texts are a reflection of, and exploration of, the human condition, the study of which develops empathic understanding of human nature. High-quality English literature is writing which displays recognisable literary qualities and, although shaped by particular contexts, transcends them and speaks about the universality of the human condition. International GCSE English Literature aims to enable students to appreciate these qualities, developing and presenting informed, critical responses to the ideas in literary texts and the ways writers present these ideas. It aims to enable students to make links between a variety of written texts and between the text and the context within which it was shaped.

Principles of mark scheme construction

Each mark scheme is driven by the task and by the statement of importance about International GCSE English Literature. It aims to do two things:

- to describe typical features of response in order to decide on a mark
- to identify typical features of proficiency in order to aid discrimination between levels of performance.

Each mark scheme is constructed using six levels. This is to reflect the ability level of the whole cohort. There are five marks within each level to allow for levels of proficiency and to allow for discrimination between levels of cognitive ability across the whole cohort.

Each mark scheme places assessment objectives AO1 and AO2 as the key skills. This is driven by the statement of importance of the subject, in that the study of great literary texts is the study of the interrelationship between the reader and the writer of the text and that the communication and reception of these ideas is an inherent feature of English literature. It is also driven by the acknowledgement that International GCSE English Literature assesses cognitive levels of ability; the level of response to ideas will have parity with the level of response to the methods of communicating those ideas.

The specification takes a skills-based approach to the study of International English Literature that is consistent across the genres. All three AOs follow the same weighting in each component. This coherent approach to the study of the subject means that AOs support learning rather than dominate it.

Level of response marking instructions

Level of response mark schemes are broken down into levels, each of which has a descriptor. The descriptor for the level shows the average performance for the level. There are marks in each level.

Before you apply the mark scheme to a student's answer read through the answer and annotate it (as instructed) to show the qualities that are being looked for. You can then apply the mark scheme.

The mark scheme is constructed using six levels of attainment that span the whole range of ability at International GCSE. The descriptors of attainment reference the assessment objectives for that particular question. Examiners are required to use the mark scheme to consider the whole response and decide upon the most appropriate level. The mark scheme provides two descriptors: a description of typical features of a response in each level, and a description of the kinds of skills candidates in that level will be proficient in. This is in order to support examiners in making their judgement of the extent to which the qualities and skills being demonstrated merit a particular level of attainment. As each response being marked is a response to a particular task, examiners are assessing the extent to which the candidate has responded to the task, and also the level of skill that the candidate has demonstrated.

Each level has five marks available and five skills descriptors. Fair application of the mark scheme to all candidates is driven by the descriptors in the mark scheme, and therefore examiners are required to make a judgement about the extent to which a candidate achieves every descriptor in that particular level in order to warrant a mark at the top of that level. If a candidate achieves everything in a level, they should be awarded the mark at the top of that level.

Since answers will rarely match a descriptor in all respects, examiners must allow good performance in some aspects to compensate for shortcomings in other respects. Consequently, the level is determined by the 'best fit' rather than requiring every element of the descriptor to be matched. Examiners should aim to use the full range of levels and marks, taking into account the standard that can reasonably be expected of candidates after one or two years of study on the International GCSE course and in the time available in the examination.

If a candidate does not address a particular defining feature of a task, examiners are required to make a judgement about the extent to which other skills can place the response in a particular level, and where the response should be placed.

Step 1 Determine a level

Start at the lowest level of the mark scheme and use it as a ladder to see whether the answer meets the descriptor for that level. The descriptor for the level indicates the different qualities that might be seen in the student's answer for that level. If it meets the lowest level then go to the next one and decide if it meets this level, and so on, until you have a match between the level descriptor and the answer. With practice and familiarity you will find that for better answers you will be able to quickly skip through the lower levels of the mark scheme.

When assigning a level you should look at the overall quality of the answer and not look to pick holes in small and specific parts of the answer where the student has not performed quite as well as the rest. If the answer covers different aspects of different levels of the mark scheme you should use a best fit approach for defining the level and then use the variability of the response to help decide the mark within the level, ie if the response is predominantly level 3 with a small amount of level 4 material it would be placed in level 3 but be awarded a mark near the top of the level because of the level 4 content.

Step 2 Determine a mark

Once you have assigned a level you need to decide on the mark. The descriptors on how to allocate marks can help with this. The exemplar materials used during standardisation will help. There will be an answer in the standardising materials which will correspond with each level of the mark scheme. This answer will have been awarded a mark by the Lead Examiner. You can compare the student's answer with the example to determine if it is the same standard, better or worse than the example. You can then use this to allocate a mark for the answer based on the Lead Examiner's mark on the example.

You may well need to read back through the answer as you apply the mark scheme to clarify points and assure yourself that the level and the mark are appropriate.

Indicative content in the mark scheme is provided as a guide for examiners. It is not intended to be exhaustive and you must credit other valid points. Students do not have to cover all of the points mentioned in the Indicative content to reach the highest level of the mark scheme.

An answer which contains nothing of relevance to the question must be awarded no marks.

Rubric infringements

If a candidate does not address a defining feature of the task, this would be classed as a rubric infringement and the examiner would be required to make a judgement about the extent to which other skills can place the response in a particular level. Examiners will receive guidance on the most appropriate way of dealing with rubric infringements at the time of the examination.

Supporting documentation

Standardising scripts would provide exemplification of attainment in order to guide examiners towards the process of discerning between levels of attainment and to aid judgement about the positioning of each response in terms of a final mark.

Exemplification documents, including indicative content, definitions of key descriptors in the mark scheme and exemplification of these descriptors, provide more detailed guidance to examiners on how to judge the relative qualities and skills being demonstrated by each candidate.

Assessment objectives (AOs)

|            |                                                                                                                       |
|------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| AO1 | Understanding of, and engagement with, themes, ideas and contexts.                                                    |
| AO2 | Analysis of how writers create meanings and effects.                                                                  |
| AO3 | Express informed, personal responses to literary texts, using appropriate terminology and coherent, accurate writing. |

Paper 1 Questions 1–22 (30 marks – AO1=12, AO2=12, AO3=6)*AO1: Understanding of, and engagement with, themes, ideas and contexts – 40%AO2: Analysis of how writers create meanings and effects – 40%AO3: Express informed, personal responses to literary texts, using appropriate terminology, and coherent, accurate writing – 20%

| Mark                                                     | AO  | Typical features                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | How to arrive at a mark                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|----------------------------------------------------------|-----|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Level 6Convincing, critical analysis and exploration | AO1 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• exploration of themes/ideas/perspectives/contextual factors shown by specific, detailed links between context/text/task</li> <li>• judicious use of precise references to support interpretation(s).</li> </ul>   | At the top of the level, a candidate's response is likely to be a critical, exploratory, well-structured argument. It takes a conceptualised approach to the full task supported by a range of judicious references. There will be a fine-grained and insightful analysis of language and form and structure. Convincing exploration of one or more theme/idea/perspective/contextual factor/interpretation. At the bottom of the level, a candidate will have Level 5 and be starting to demonstrate elements of exploratory thought and/or analysis of writer's methods and /or contexts.                          |
| 26–30 marks                                       | AO2 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• analysis of writer's methods</li> <li>• exploration of effects of writer's methods on reader.</li> </ul>                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|                                                          | AO3 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• critical, exploratory, conceptualised response to task and whole text.</li> </ul>                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Level 5Thoughtful, developed consideration           | AO1 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• thoughtful consideration of themes/ideas/perspectives/contextual factors shown by examination of detailed links between context/text/task</li> <li>• apt references integrated into interpretation(s).</li> </ul> | At the top of the level, a candidate's response is likely to be thoughtful, detailed and developed. It takes a considered approach to the full task with references integrated into interpretation; there will be a detailed examination of the effects of language and/or structure and/or form. Examination of themes/ideas/perspectives/contextual factors, possibly including alternative interpretations/deeper meanings. At the bottom of the level, a candidate will have Level 4 and be starting to demonstrate elements of thoughtful consideration and/or examination of writer's methods and/or contexts. |
| 21–25 marks                                       |     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |

|                                                                                |     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Level 4 Clear understanding 16–20 marks            | AO1 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• clear understanding of themes/ideas/perspectives/contextual factors shown by specific links between context/text/task</li> <li>• effective use of references to support explanation.</li> </ul>     | At the top of the level, a candidate's response is likely to be clear, sustained and consistent. It takes a focused response to the full task which demonstrates clear understanding. It uses a range of references effectively to illustrate and justify explanation; there will be clear explanation of the effects of a range of writer's methods. Clear understanding of themes/ideas/perspectives/contextual factors. At the bottom of the level, a candidate will have Level 3 and be starting to demonstrate elements of understanding and/or explanation of writer's methods and/or contexts. |
|                                                                                | AO2 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• clear explanation of writer's methods</li> <li>• understanding of effects of writer's methods on reader.</li> </ul>                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|                                                                                | AO3 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• clear, explained response to task and whole text.</li> </ul>                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Level 3 Explained, structured comments 11–15 marks | AO1 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• some understanding of implicit themes/ideas/perspectives/contextual factors shown by links between context/text/task</li> <li>• references used to support a range of relevant comments.</li> </ul> | At the top of the level, a candidate's response is likely to be explanatory in parts. It focuses on the full task with a range of points exemplified by relevant references from the text; there will be identification of effects of a range of writer's methods. Explanation of some relevant ideas/contextual factors. At the bottom of the level, a candidate will have Level 2 and be starting to explain and/or make relevant comments on writer's methods and/or contexts.                                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                | AO2 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• explained/relevant comments on writer's methods</li> <li>• identification of effects of writer's methods on reader.</li> </ul>                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|                                                                                | AO3 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• some explained response to task and whole text.</li> </ul>                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

|                                                                            |                                          |                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Level 2Supported,relevantcomments6–10 marks | AO1                                      | <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• some awareness of implicit themes/ideas/contextual factors</li><li>• comments on references.</li></ul> | At the top of the level , a candidate’s response is likely to be relevant and supported by some explanation. It will include some focus on the task with relevant comments and some supporting references from the text. There will be identification of effects of deliberate choices made by writer. Awareness of some contextual factors.At the bottom of the level , a candidate’s response will have Level 1 and be starting to focus on the task and/or starting to show awareness of the writer making choices and/or awareness of contexts. |
|                                                                            | AO2                                      | <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• identification of writers’ methods</li><li>• comments on effects of methods on reader.</li></ul>       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|                                                                            | AO3                                      | <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• supported response to task and text.</li></ul>                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Level 1Simple,explicitcomments1–5 marks     | AO1                                      | <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• simple comment on explicit ideas/contextual factors</li><li>• reference to relevant details.</li></ul> | At the top of the level , a candidate’s response is likely to be narrative and/or descriptive in approach. It may include awareness of the task and provide appropriate reference to text; there will be simple identification of method. Simple comments/responses to context, usually explicit.At the bottom of the level , a candidate’s response will show some familiarity with the text.                                                                                                                                                      |
|                                                                            | AO2                                      | <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• awareness of writer making deliberate choices</li><li>• simple comment on effect.</li></ul>            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|                                                                            | AO3                                      | <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• simple comments relevant to task and text.</li></ul>                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 0 marks                                                             | Nothing worthy of credit/nothing written |                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |

Section A: Prose

| | | |---|---| | 0 | 1 | |---|---| Charles Dickens: Great Expectations

Starting with this extract, explore how Dickens presents the relationship between Pip and Estella in Great Expectations.

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Initial meeting in extract – Pip thinks Estella is beautiful but proud; Estella thinks Pip is common.
- Pip's attraction to Estella developing from this meeting.
- Miss Havisham's part in the relationship.
- Estella's marriage to Bentley Drummle.
- End of novel and their reunion; possibly the changes Dickens made to the original ending.

AO2

- Use of first person narrator helps us empathise with Pip's feelings towards Estella.
- Estella's name suggests her beautiful but distant nature – suggests she is unattainable for Pip.
- Use of contrast between Pip and Estella in terms of appearance and speech in extract.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 0 | 2 |
|---|---|

Charles Dickens: *Great Expectations

Write about how Dickens presents money and social class in Great Expectations.

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Examples of poverty in the novel such as Pip's home life at start of novel.
- Attitudes of Mrs Joe and Pumblechook towards Miss Havisham because she has money.
- Changes in Pip when he comes into money.
- Magwitch – looked down upon even though he has money because of his class.
- Corrupting effects of money – eg Miss Havisham's family.

AO2

- Use of Pip as first person narrator to show attitudes to money.
- Uncomfortable descriptions of Joe and Magwitch to show Pip's changing attitudes towards class.
- Descriptions of Pumblechook's behaviour to show sycophantic nature of social climbers in novel.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 0 | 3 |
|---|---|

Harper Lee: *To Kill a Mockingbird

Starting with this extract, explore how Lee presents Atticus in To Kill a Mockingbird.

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Atticus as a father – his shortcomings (according to Scout) here used to highlight his positive qualities which are obvious to the reader.
- Atticus as a lawyer – his skill and integrity during Tom Robinson’s trial.
- Atticus as moral centre of novel – his trust in the law; his stance against racism; his ability to see other points of view.
- Possibly Atticus’ shortcomings – his determination to adhere rigidly to the law when Bob Ewell is killed.

AO2

- Scout as narrator with limited view of a child: we understand more about Atticus than she says.
- Reactions of other characters to Atticus eg use of Miss Maudie to give alternative point of view; reactions of Black community in court.
- Descriptions of Atticus.
- The language he uses in his speech in the courtroom.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate’s proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 0 | 4 |
|---|---|

Harper Lee: *To Kill a Mockingbird

How does Lee present different types of prejudice in To Kill a Mockingbird?

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Prejudice against Black people shown through outcome of trial; reactions to Atticus taking the case; black church used by white people for gambling during week; position of Black community – separate from white people’s houses and near the dump.
- Social prejudice and stereotyping – against ‘country folk’, shown by school scenes.
- Possibly prejudice against white people shown by attitudes of Lula when children visit Calpurnia’s church.
- Prejudice against anyone who is different, eg Boo Radley.

AO2

- Use of Scout as narrator: innocence of child who does not understand attitudes of adults.
- Irony of teacher talking about Hitler’s persecution of Jews when she herself is prejudiced against black people.
- Prejudice shown through conversation of Maycomb ladies about J Grimes Everett – irony and hypocrisy of their comments.
- Use of contrast eg Tom’s respectful behaviour in court compared to Ewell’s crude language and lack of respect for authority.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate’s proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 0 | 5 |
|---|---|

Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie: *Purple Hibiscus

Starting with this extract, explore the ways Adichie presents the differences between the public and the private sides of Papa in Purple Hibiscus.

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Public side of Papa – shown here and elsewhere – respected member of the community.
- Public side of Papa – wealthy and successful businessman; politically liberal.
- Public side of Papa – religious man with high moral standards.
- Private side of Papa – domestic violence shown towards wife and children.
- Conflict between these two aspects of his character shown through his repentance immediately afterwards and his attempts to use religion to justify his abuse.
- Perhaps ideas about colonisation – in public Papa is keen to appear more Western and he despises the indigenous religion in favour of the colonisers' Christianity.

AO2

- Use of Kambili as narrator – her conflicted feelings about her father show her inability to reconcile the two sides of his character.
- Use of contrasts – eg Aunty Ifeoma's family and the freedom that Kambili finds it hard to understand.
- Papa's changing language – speaks with more of a British accent when in public, in an attempt to converge with white people, especially religious white people.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 0 | 6 |
|---|---|

Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie: *Purple Hibiscus

How are family members shown to be supportive of each other in Purple Hibiscus?

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Auntie Ifeoma taking in Kambili and Jaja even though her family is living in straitened circumstances.
- Mama and Jaja each trying to take the blame for Papa's death at the end of the novel.
- Mama and Kambili paying bribes to get Jaja a better deal in prison.
- Many examples of Kambili and Jaja supporting each other through Papa's violence.

AO2

- Use of contrasts – Papa's violence contrasts with kindness and support of other family members.
- Use of Kambili as narrator – shows her feelings about family members eg visit to grandfather's house.
- Use of dialogue.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 0 | 7 |
|---|---|

Kazuo Ishiguro: *Klara and the Sun

Starting with this extract, explore how Ishiguro presents new scientific developments in Klara and the Sun.

[30 marks]

Indicative Content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretation. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- The 'lifting' process referred to in the extract: a type of genetic engineering which gives children intellectual and social advantages over others.
- The physical dangers of lifting as hinted at in the extract and shown in Josie's ill health throughout the novel.
- The social inequalities created by lifting, where the unlifted face limited opportunities in life.
- The Artificial Friends in the novel: solar powered humanoid artificial intelligences designed for companionship.
- The ethical questions raised by the AFs: ideas about consciousness and the boundaries between machine and human.

AO2

- In the extract, the conversation of the women, showing their pity for the unlifted Rick.
- The avoidance of mentioning the link between Josie's illness and the process and the embarrassment when it is inadvertently referred to.
- The use of euphemism in the extract and in the novel as a whole when referring to scientific advances: 'lifting', 'AFs'.
- The use of Klara as first person narrator: her view is limited and unreliable and leaves the reader to piece together the exact nature of the scientific developments in the novel.
- The use of symbolism eg Josie's portrait which is to be used to create an AF in her image should she die and the Cootings Machine.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 0 | 8 |
|---|---|

Kazuo Ishiguro: *Klara and the Sun

How does Ishiguro present the character of Melania Housekeeper in Klara and the Sun?

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Melania as a domestic servant who works for the Mother, cooking, cleaning and looking after Josie.
- Her initial suspicion of Klara as she sees the possibility of her own role being replaced by an AI.
- Melania's love for Josie and her protectiveness.
- Melania's later willingness to work with Klara to protect Josie, even if it means standing up to the Mother.
- Ideas about relationships between employers and servants in the novel with Melania and Klara both being 'servants', albeit of a different kind.

AO2

- The use of Klara as a first person narrator whose view of Melania changes as the novel progresses.
- Structurally, the way Melania's presence in the novel fades as Josie grows older.
- The structural change in Melania and Klara's relationship.
- Melania's language: she speaks bluntly, perhaps because English is not her first language but also because she is keen to protect Josie.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 0 | 9 |
|---|---|

Susan Hill: *The Woman in Black

Starting with this extract, explore how Hill presents Jennet Humfrye as a character who seeks revenge for the death of her son.

[30 marks]*Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- The explanation of Jennet Humfrye's loss and her revenge in the extract.
- The circumstances that lead to Jennet Humfrye taking revenge: her sister taking her son away from her; the death of the child on the marshes; her own illness and death.
- Her powerlessness when she is alive as a young, unmarried mother in a society which would have condemned her.
- The power she achieves in death as a vengeful ghost who kills children so their parents suffer as she did.
- Her revenge on a society which ostracised her and which she blamed for the death of her son.

AO2

- The structure of the conversation in the extract with Mr Daly delaying the shocking revelation about the deaths of the children until Arthur thinks he has heard the whole story.
- The physical description of Jennet in the extract and elsewhere which adds to her frightening presence.
- The use of Arthur Kipps as a first person narrator who is sceptical about the supernatural and about Jennet's revenge from beyond the grave at first.
- The documents which Arthur finds which tell part of Jennet's story from her point of view and might create some sympathy for her desire for revenge.
- The use of settings where Jennet's revenge is enacted: the Gothic setting of the churchyard and the isolated village and the contrast of the bright, crowded setting of the park when Arthur's son is killed.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 1 | 0 |
|---|---|

Susan Hill: *The Woman in Black

How does Hill present Esme and her family in The Woman in Black?

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Esme and her children as an example of a happy family who provide Arthur with stability after his earlier experiences.
- The Christmas Eve storytelling at the start of the novel which prompts Arthur to remember his experiences of the supernatural.
- Esme's positivity and pragmatism which helps Arthur forget the horrors of his past.
- Esme's children who have survived and thrived into adulthood.
- Esme's youngest son, Edmund, who is more imaginative and withdrawn than his siblings and who, perhaps because of this, is Arthur's favourite.

AO2

- Arthur's first person narration which means the reader shares his opinion of Daily.
- The structural change in Arthur's opinion of Daily from his early dismissal of him as 'brash' and 'vulgar' to his increasing respect and gratitude for Daily's wise counsel.
- The contrast between Daily's views about the woman in black and Arthur's: Daily's judicious respect for the supernatural and Arthur's scepticism.
- The physical descriptions of Daily: on first meeting him on the train and of his family life when Arthur visits for dinner.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 1 | 1 |
|---|---|

OxfordAQA Short Stories Anthology

Starting with this extract, explore how relationships between adults and children are presented in The Lumber Room and one other story from the OxfordAQA Short Stories Anthology.

[30 marks]*Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- In the extract the revenge taken by the aunt on Nicholas because of his bad behaviour; her deceitfulness and lack of honesty with the children in making up treats which she then denies the children if they have not behaved well.
- In the rest of the story the aunt's attempts to control Nicholas' actions while he is at home in disgrace and Nicholas' skill in outwitting her and using her own instructions against her, leaving her stuck in the water tank.
- The relationships between Sandra and Kerry and Mrs Rutter in The Darkness out There.
- The relationship between Jerry and his mother in Through the Tunnel.
- The relationship between Trevor and Mr Thomas in The Destructors.

AO2

- The sense of resolution at the ending of My Polish Teacher's Tie with obstacles to Carla's friendship with Steve resolved.
- The symbol of the tie, which links to the title of the story and shows that Carla has an affinity with Steve.
- The contrast between the ending of The Darkness Out There and the start of the story in the references to light and dark.
- The comedy of the ending of The Lumber Room as Nicholas outwits the repressive and humourless aunt.
- The contrast between the presentation of Jerry at the start and the end of Through the Tunnel.
- The symbolism of the house which had stood 'like a man in a top hat' being destroyed at the end of The Destructors and the laughter of the lorry driver.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 1 | 2 |
|---|---|

OxfordAQA Short Stories Anthology

How do writers present characters as outsiders? Write about Carla in My Polish Teachers Tie and one character from one other story from the OxfordAQA Short Stories Anthology.

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Carla's feelings of being an outsider in the school because of her status as a part time catering assistant; the way she is overlooked by the Headteacher.
- Carla's reluctance to reveal her identity to Stefan because she feels he will judge her as she is not a teacher.
- Carla's status as an outsider because of her Polish heritage and how Stefan helps her reconnect with her roots.
- Mrs Marlene Vadnie Sevlon's outsider status and how she creates an imaginary husband to help her fit in.
- Jerry's status as an outsider to the older boys and a foreigner in Through the Tunnel.

AO2

- Carla as first person narrator in My Polish Teacher's Tie and how this helps the reader understand her feelings.
- The use of Polish songs and poems to bring Carla and Stefan – two outsiders – together at the end of the story.
- The use of other characters eg the Headteacher – to show Carla's status as an outsider in the school.
- The use of description in Mrs Marlene Vadnie Sevlon to show the lengths Marlene goes to hide her outsider status.
- The use of symbolism in Through the Tunnel to show Jerry's lack of connection to his mother and to the older boys.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

Section B: Drama

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 1 | 3 |
|---|---|

William Shakespeare: *A Midsummer Night's Dream

Starting with this extract, explore how Shakespeare presents the relationship between Titania and Oberon in A Midsummer Night's Dream.

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- In the extract the equal matching of Oberon's and Titania's strength.
- In the extract Oberon's expectation that Titania will comply with his wishes.
- Their powerful roles as King and Queen of the Fairies which mean that their personal conflict creates a disturbance in nature.
- The shifting power balance between Titania and Oberon in the play as a whole and his eventual humiliating of her with the love potion.
- Their eventual reconciliation.

AO2

- In the extract, Titania's confident speech in standing up to Oberon.
- The comedy created by Oberon using the love potion on Titania and her subsequent infatuation with Bottom.
- The parallels between the lovers in the fairy world and those in the human world to show that nobody is immune from love.
- The structural aspect of their argument and their eventual reconciliation which ends the play on a note of harmony.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 1 | 4 |
|---|---|

William Shakespeare: *A Midsummer Night's Dream

How does Shakespeare present dreams in A Midsummer Night's Dream?

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- The dream like states experienced by characters who are affected by the love potion, which makes people fall in love with the wrong person, causing confusion.
- Bottom's inability to explain his experiences in the wood causes him to conclude that he was asleep and dreaming.
- The way that the dreams become like nightmares for some characters, eg Hermia.
- The irrationality of the events in the play which is explained by being compared to dreaming.

AO2

- The setting of the wood which is a place of irrationality where the boundaries between dreams and reality blur.
- The use of magical characters such as fairies and dances and music to create a dream like environment.
- The many mentions of dreams throughout the play from Hippolyta's first words ('Four nights will quickly dream away the time.').
- The ending of the play: Puck's soliloquy where he invites the audience to see the play itself as a dream ('Think but this, and all is mended,/ That you have but slumber'd here/ While these visions did appear.').
- The importance of dreams as shown by the title of the play.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 1 | 5 |
|---|---|

William Shakespeare: *Macbeth

Starting with this extract explore how Shakespeare presents the effects of guilt in Macbeth.

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Effects of guilt on Macbeth are immediate: extract shows that straight after the murder he fears he will not be able to speak.
- This is evidenced later in the play – Lady Macbeth says ‘You do lack the season of all natures, sleep’.
- At the end of the play his guilt about Macduff’s family shows him regaining a little of his initial nobility (‘Of all men else, I have avoided thee...’).
- Lady Macbeth’s trajectory is the opposite – no guilt at first then driven mad by guilt – sleepwalking scene.

AO2

- Blood as symbol of guilt in extract – differences in attitudes of Macbeth and Lady Macbeth.
- Broken speech in extract and elsewhere to show different effects of guilt on the couple.
- Structure – links between extract and sleepwalking scene – handwashing, references to water – shows effects of guilt.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate’s proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 1 | 6 |
|---|---|

William Shakespeare: *Macbeth

How does Shakespeare explore ideas about kingship in Macbeth?

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Duncan as good king – making decisions about promotion according to merit.
- Macbeth as tyrannical king – effects on Scotland.
- Edward of England as good king.
- Malcolm as rightful king.

AO2

- Imagery of disease/health: Edward able to cure scrofula/Macbeth causing Scotland to be diseased.
- Macbeth's description of Duncan's virtues when deciding whether to kill him.
- Other characters' opinions of Macbeth.
- Sense of order and resolution at end when Malcolm becomes king.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 1 | 7 |
|---|---|

JB Priestley: *An Inspector Calls

Starting with this extract, explore how Priestley presents the differences between the young generation and the older generation in An Inspector Calls.

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Effects of Inspector's visit on younger generation: Sheila and Eric genuinely regret their actions.
- Effects on Mr and Mrs Birling not as noticeable: their bluster and defensiveness.
- Reactions of characters of different generations at end of play when they think it's a hoax.

AO2

- Contrast in the language used by Sheila and Mrs Birling in this passage.
- Use of dramatic irony to show Mr Birling's real concerns – comments about avoiding scandal show his real feelings.
- Use of dramatic irony to show Mrs Birling's hypocrisy – the father of Eva's child is her son.
- Ending of play: conflict and contrast between children and parents.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 1 | 8 |
|---|---|

JB Priestley: *An Inspector Calls

How does Priestley present the world of business and money in An Inspector Calls?

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Accounts of Mr Birling's factory – show concern with making money at expense of employees.
- Importance of expanding business – reason for marriage between Sheila and Gerald.
- Hints of corruption: Mr Birling threatens Inspector with Chief Constable, saying that they play golf together.
- Dress shop: Eva is sacked to keep the daughter of a wealthy customer happy. Unfairness.
- Eva as prostitute and her relationship with Gerald – even love is reduced to a financial transaction.
- Mrs Birling's charitable work – undertaken to increase her standing in the community and therefore enhance her husband's business.

AO2

- Language to describe workers – Mr Birling calls them 'cheap labour'.
- Sycophantic language of Mr Birling to Gerald about Gerald's parents.
- Setting to show how financially successful Mr Birling has become because of his business.
- Mr Birling's parochial language and attitudes and social solecisms to show Priestley's disapproval of him.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 1 | 9 |
|---|---|

Dennis Kelly: *DNA

Starting with this extract, explore how Kelly presents John Tate in DNA.

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- John Tate's control over the group in the extract.
- His implied threats to the others.
- John Tate's increasingly desperate attempts to control the group in other parts of the play such as forbidding them to use the word 'dead'.
- His gradual loss of power over the group as they look for alternative leadership.
- John Tate's increasing mental instability.
- His leaving school and becoming evangelically religious.

AO2

- In the extract, the aggressive language used by John Tate.
- His frequent interruptions when others try to speak.
- John Tate's instability as a leader shown by his increasingly bizarre threats eg 'bite their face'.
- The structural aspects of John's increasing lack of control and increasing mental instability.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 2 | 0 |
|---|---|

Dennis Kelly: *DNA

How does Kelly present the effects of guilt in DNA?

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- The effects of guilt on Brian: his becoming upset and crying, his increasing reliance on medication, his disconnection from reality; his being persuaded to really kill Adam at the end of the play and his descent into madness after this.
- The effects of guilt on John Tate: his distancing himself from the group and leaving school; his loss of power and leadership; his conversion to Christianity, perhaps as an attempt to atone for what he has done.
- The effects of guilt on Leah: her change from a shallow, image-obsessed teenager who constantly seeks reassurance from her boyfriend Phil to someone who leaves Phil and the group and becomes isolated and frightened.
- The repressed guilt felt by some characters such as Phil.
- The lack of guilt Cathy feels.

AO2

- The use of conversation and dialogue to show the effects of guilt on the characters.
- Structurally the increasingly obvious effects of guilt on some characters.
- The use of repeated settings to show the way the characters are trapped by their guilt.
- The use of stage directions to show the effects of guilt.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 2 | 1 |
|---|---|

Lorraine Hansberry: *A Raisin in the Sun

Starting with this extract, explore how Hansberry presents the importance of money in A Raisin in the Sun.

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Mama's insurance money: she sees it as an opportunity to buy a house which will offer freedom from racial oppression.
- Beneatha sees the money as an opportunity to train to be a doctor which also offers her an escape from racism and sexism.
- Walter sees money as a means to buy material possessions and boost his social standing in this way.
- At end Walter has change of heart when he refuses Lindner's offer to stay away from the white neighbourhood. Realises there are things which are more important than money.

AO2

- Dialogue between family members about money.
- Use of setting – view to street outside – shows social class of family.
- Structure: Walter's turning point when he realises he is not going to accept Lindner's bribe.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate's proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.

|   |   |
|---|---|
| 2 | 2 |
|---|---|

Lorraine Hansberry: *A Raisin in the Sun

How does Hansberry present the character of Walter in A Raisin in the Sun?

[30 marks]

Indicative content

Examiners are encouraged to reward any valid interpretations. Answers might, however, include some of the following:

AO1

- Walter as a character who is dissatisfied with his role in life – chauffeur to a white man – and wants more status and respect.
- His unwise decision to invest in the liquor store and the results of this.
- His eventual change to become almost a hero who earns the respect of his family.

AO2

- Use of stage directions to introduce Walter: ‘a lean intense man’ with ‘nervous movements and erratic speech habits’.
- His speech which shows his lack of contentment with his and his family’s lot.
- The turning point when he realises Lindner’s money will not make him happy.

AO3

Examiners are looking to award the candidate’s proficiency in:

- presenting an argument
- organising their thoughts
- responding to the task
- communicating their ideas.